

REAL ESTATE PROJECT DEVELOPMENT

GENERAL

Project development is a process of implementing certain work steps that are necessary for the realization of a real estate project: from the first idea, through the requirements planning, location selection, feasibility study, concrete formulation of the planning task, the support of the building phase and the utilization.

We offer qualified builder's representation/project management for your real estate projects, or among others for the following construction project types:

- for new- or reconstructions,
- for specific tasks for which an undeveloped property, or existing building is being searched for,
- for properties, or existing buildings for which a new use is to be found,
- for private and public contracting authorities, which is why the following (sub)services, which are grouped into corresponding project phases, can be applied in different compositions and/or different sequences.

On the following pages you will find a detailed overview of our scope of services.

We will be happy to present our detailed scope of services (from basic survey and project development, through planning and execution, to sales or letting) in the course of a personal meeting.
